

SUE AND GARY

Greetings and best wishes for the holiday!

GINGER

Sue and I celebrated our 40th wedding anniversary in 2013 by going to Tahiti. We had been there before but this time we spent three weeks and visited several smaller less populated islands. On one island, we stayed on a resort that had fewer than 20 guests. The economy has obviously strained international travel.

In July, we traveled to Great Britain to celebrate the wedding of Sue's cousin's daughter, Carolyn and her husband Greg. The wedding party spent four days at a resort near in the Cotswolds in England. This gave the various families opportunity to get to know each other and enjoy the festivities. We were in the company of two of Sue's cousins on her father's side.

Following the wedding, we rode the train to Scotland for the annual Edinburgh Tattoo. This is the premier military and highland band demonstration. In addition to the Scottish pipe bands, precision musicians and dancers from around the world performed. We then went to Aberdeen and enjoyed atypical sunny weather while visiting the place where Sue was born and spent her first 8 years.

In the fall we traveled to see Gary's younger brother, Randy and his family on Whidbey Island in Washington. This was relaxing and we had opportunity to fish for salmon. No catches that day but a wonderful time on the waters near Deception Pass.

As you may suspect, Sue and Gary were very active with several smaller trips. We continue to bicycle and Gary plays tennis 3 times a week. Soon it will be a much anticipated ski season. We have recently stopped Scottish dancing because it was causing leg and back injuries.

This spring, Sue and her brother Dick, traveled up to Edmonton and over to Victoria on Vancouver Island. They enjoyed spending time together and visiting a few airplane museums along the way. While they did that, Gary went to Wyoming and Montana to see old friends and to enjoy solo outdoor activities.

Gary's brother David lives in the Boise area and we see him often.

This past year was wonderful and we continue to be thankful for our good health and free time in retirement.

We wish you, our friends and family, well for the coming year and hope that you have pleasant holidays wherever you may be!

We have recently revised our website and you can see new photos and blog posts.
